attention

The information on this guide does not replace medical orientation.

Talk to your physician and do not take medicines without his knowledge.

The information about health centers, National Health Surveillance Agency, taxi cooperatives and tourist attractions (working hours, types of support, etc.) were obtained on the companies' web sites and it is their responsibilities and it can change.

A Guide to travelers that do not want to waste time

To travel by leisure, entertainment or even to work is one of the best pleasures in life for those who like news, to know other cultures, make new friends. Another certainty, besides the adventure spirit, to go back home is the greatest desire of the most part of the travelers, bringing the best memories in their luggage.

Thinking of the health safety of the domestic or foreign traveler that goes around Brazil, the Immunization Brazilian Society - Sociedade Brasileira de Imunizações (SBIm) – had elaborated this orientation guide that has as motivation, the Fifa's World Cup and other big events that represent situations that enlarge the possibilities of people interactions all over the world. It also brings extra information about tourist attractions, emergency phones and more.

When you choose prevention as your partner, you are protecting your health and the people's that you visit, and the ones from your community when you get back. And here you find everything for your best experience ever.

Enjoy!

The travelers appointment

It can seem boring to include a medical appointment on the travel schedule. But you want to enjoy your time, right? So, do not waste time. During your Travel Medicine appointment, the principal health risks are evaluated and the preventive measures are defined according to the travel plan – vaccines, preventive medicines and self-treatment, even orientations to prevent accidents and the assembling of a basic first aid kit. Besides the “last minute” travelers also benefits from this care, the biggest tendency will be your ally: the appointment must be, ideally, from four to six weeks before departure.

Medicines and prescriptions

All travelers must take a kit assembled according to his/her health condition and the planned destiny/schedule. It is not “a bad omen”. If you do not think about the cares, you are going to “be left high and dry”, in other words, at the hotel room, watching life goes on. OK, there we go: the purpose of this kit is to facilitate the solution of the pre existent problems and their exacerbations; the management of small occurrences; and also to prevent specific diseases related to the trip.

GET SMART: Your “Health kit” must be accessible – in your hand luggage. But remember that in your plane trips sharp objects, liquid and gel that exceed 120 ml must be in your checked luggage.

For those that take medicines – specially “controlled ones” and/ or “injectable ones” – must bring copies of the prescriptions. During the trip appointment, the physician will provide the necessary prescriptions. So, if anything happens, you will feel safe and one problem less to solve.

Assembling your basic “Health kit”

1) Medicines to preexistent medical conditions (and possible exacerbations)

GET SMART: Take enough medicines for the travel period and some extra just in case you delay your return, keeping it separately due to risk of luggage loss.

2) Other medicines:

- ★ For pain or fever.
- ★ For nausea or vomits.
- ★ Hypoallergenic.
- ★ Anti-parasitic
- ★ Anti-diarrheic.
- ★ Anti-acid.
- ★ Decongestants.
- ★ Nasal saline solutions.
- ★ Antibiotics and anti-parasitic (depending on the medical prescription and correct use orientation).
- ★ Antibacterial tissues or gel alcohol for the hands hygiene.

3) Items for first aid and small injuries:

- ★ Band aid, gauze, micropore, cotton, cotton swabs.
- ★ Elastic bandage for sprain or strain.
- ★ Bandage for injuries and sling.
- ★ Antiseptic for topical use.
- ★ Tweezers, scissors (Attention: these items must not go in your hand luggage!)
- ★ Topical solutions, ointment or antifungal creams and antibacterial (the last two items depend on the medical prescription and correct use orientation).
- ★ Cream with 1% of hydrocortisone for allergic dermatitis (skin inflammation).
- ★ Gel or cream for insect bites.
- ★ Gel to burn relieves.
- ★ Physiological saline.
- ★ Thermometer.

4) Items that can be added, depending on the traveler and the trip:

- ★ Antimalarial drugs (medical prescription and correct use orientation are needed).
- ★ Medicine for the evil of altitude.
- ★ Sleep inducing.
- ★ Self injectable adrenaline (especially for travelers with history of severe allergic reaction anaphylaxis).
- ★ Insulin, needles or syringes, to diabetic people. The needles and syringes can be difficult to obtain in some places, so, the traveler must bring bigger quantities. This medication requires detailed medical prescriptions.

- ★ Insects repellents, mosquito net.
- ★ Sun block.
- ★ Hypochlorite solution or drops for water treatment.

Attention: The medicines must be kept in their original packs.

GET SMART: Do not underestimate the opportunities, especially if you are an adventure spirit. Brazil has a unique geography and it offers opportunities like boat/helicopters rides and also mountain climbing and tracks through astonishing landscapes. Scissors and gel for bites are like heaven in the middle of the forest!

When the medical prescription is required in Brazil?

- Medicines with a black line – psychotropics: anti-depressives, anxiolytics, antiepileptic.
- Medicines with a red line – antibiotics, antifungal, anti-parasitic, hormones and hormonal blockers, corticosteroids, anti-histamine, beta-blockers, anti-hypertensive, oral anti-diabetics, and others.

Prescriptions of foreign physicians

In Brazil there is no specific legislation about foreign prescriptions for foreign travelers made in their country of origin. In the procedure of arriving, the National Health Surveillance Agency may demand the prescription for controlled or unknown medicines, mainly if there is a big quantity. .

GET SMART: What cannot be left out of the prescription:

- ★ Patients' and physicians' data.
- ★ Identification of the medicine by its generic name or the active substance, since the commercial name can be unknown in Brazil.
- ★ Details of the use of the medicine.

The prescriptions in different languages from Portuguese are acceptable, since it could be possible to understand all its content. In case of doubts, the National Health Surveillance Agency will decide the measures to take.

At drugstores

- ★ Medicines classified as black line need the standard prescription in Brazil. To obtain it, the traveler must have an appointment with a Brazilian physician.
- ★ Medicines classified as red line: the drugstores analyze the prescription from the foreign physician and can sell if it is possible to understand it correctly: the generic name or the active substance; the treatment and the identification of the patient and the physician.

Travel insurance

Certainly you have no doubts about this subject. But have you already started thinking about it? The insurance exists to protect the investment made to the trip, as it minimizes the need of extra expenses eventually, like luggage loss or even health problems that sometimes requires high costs, as in removals.

Visa to Brazil

Brazil has a policy of reciprocity with other countries. To know if you need visa, access: <http://goo.gl/ItnFeg> (English) or <http://goo.gl/k7nKum> (Portuguese). To obtain the document, go to the nearest council or access the Travel Documents Control and Emission System (Sistema de Controle e Emissão de Documentos de Viagem) on the Brazilian Ministry of Foreign Affairs (Ministério das Relações Exteriores do Brasil) website: <https://scedv.serpro.gov.br>.

VACCINES

General orientations

It is very important that the routine vaccines are up-to-date for every tourist in his/her country and that he/she knows which ones are required according to his/her health conditions, age, kind of trip and the destiny.

Some groups need special attention

Pregnant women – must have an appointment with their obstetrician to know the preventive measures they need to take or orientations about possible treatments.

Carriers of chronic diseases – can go through special risks for infections and need some vaccines not included on routine calendar.

Elderly – normally they are in delay with their vaccines and respond less efficiently to vaccines like hepatitis B, for example. So, the vaccination must be done as earlier as it is possible from the trip.

GET SMART: Antecedence and planning:

1. The ideal is to be vaccinated at least two months before taking off: many vaccines need two or three doses and, in general, it is needed ten days to produce antibodies.
2. Who does not know the own vaccination history must take the vaccines normally. There is no risk.
3. Before the vaccination, talk to your physician, he/she will help you.

International Certificate of Vaccination and Prophylaxis (Certificado Internacional de Vacinação e Profilaxia – CIVP)

The International Sanitary Regulation (Regulamento Sanitário Internacional - RSI, 2005) allows the countries to demand the CIVP for the foreign people to entree, and this can occur even to passengers only in transit at the airports. Brazil does not demand this document, but recommends that people that leave or go to areas that the yellow fever vaccine is needed on routine bases, are vaccinated (see the topic "Yellow fever", p. 22).

Choosing the prevention team

Vaccination

Now, we are going to talk about some inconvenience that can compromise your trip, in case you neglect prevention. They are infectious diseases preventable by immunization and other cares.

The tourist vaccination is important not only for his/her own health, but also to protect the people that leave in the countries he/she is going to visit, once it prevents the introduction of controlled diseases in the places to be visited. And yet, to prevent that when return to his/her own home, the tourist become a virus and bacteria "vector". Brazil has very different realities and continental dimensions from state to state, so this is also applied to the "domestic" tourist.

As you realize, to travel requires a big dose of community responsibility.

SBIIm vaccination calendars (see "Extras". p. 48) bring information about the availability of vaccines on health public system in Brazil, for Brazilian people, and on vaccines private practices, also to foreign people. As the vaccination must occur preferably before the trip, if you are a foreign tourist, talk to your physician and seek information in the local health system.

Specific orientation

HEPATITIS B

Sexually transmissible, it can be transmitted also through blood or carriers' secretion contact, and sharp contaminated objects.

- Indication – The hepatitis B vaccine is indicated independently of the age.
- Contraindication – Only in cases of severe allergy (anaphylaxis) to any vaccine component after the anterior dose.
- Doses – Three (0-1-6 months). The combined presentation (hepatitis A and B vaccine) can be indicated. To know about the accelerated schedule with four doses and its indication, talk to your physician.
- Most common reactions – Minor pain, heat, swelling and redness on the spot of the application. Fever may occur.
- Where to take the vaccines in Brazil – They are available for free at the public system to Brazilian people until 49 years old. On private practices they are available for everybody.

GET SMART: The vaccine is the most efficient prevention from hepatitis B, but do not give up the following cares: to use condom in intercourse; do not share toothbrushes, nail pliers, shaving blades; to demand sterilized or disposable materials in tattoo and piercing studios, health services, acupuncture services and medical and dental procedures.

HEPATITIS A

It is transmitted by faecal-oral routes (anus-mouth), from person to person and by the ingestion of water and food contaminated by animals and human waste with the virus. It appears in countries with inadequate sanitary conditions and in lots of Brazilian regions. The trips increase the risk of exposure to this virus.

- Indication – The hepatitis A vaccine is recommended routinely by Sociedade Brasileira de Imunizações (SBIm) from one year old on. Brazilian and foreign people traveling through Brazil must pay special attention to this indication.
- Contraindication – Only in cases of severe allergy (anaphylaxis) to any vaccine component after the anterior dose.
- Doses – Only hepatitis A: two doses (0-6 months) for children older than one year old. If it is combined with the hepatitis B vaccine in the formula for adults: two doses (0-6 months) for children older than 1 and younger than 15 years old; three doses (0-1-6 months) for the ones older than 15 years old.
- Most common reactions – Pain, heat, swelling and redness on the spot of the application.

→ Where to take the vaccines in Brazil – They are available only in vaccination private practices. In your country, talk to your physician and seek for information in the local health system.

POLIOMYELITIS (“CHILD PALSY”)

It is eradicated from the Americas, so, there is no risk of being acquired in Brazil. Therefore, because the risk of resurgence, due to traveling around the world, it is necessary to insure that the population is immunized.

→ Indication – For all children in the first five years and teenagers and adults travelers that go to countries that still have this disease.

→ Contraindication – The oral vaccine should not be applied in hospitalized people, immunosuppressed or that ones that live with immunodeficient people. There is no contraindication for injectable vaccines, except in cases of severe allergy (anaphylaxis) to any vaccine component.

→ Doses – For children: three doses in the first year and two backups by 15 months and between 4 and 5 years old. To teenagers and adults that travel to risk areas, one dose only.

→ Most common reactions – The injectable vaccine can cause local pain and fever.

→ Where to take the vaccines in Brazil – In public services for all Brazilian children under 5 years old. The injectable vaccine is available in vaccination private practices for teenagers and adults, combined with triple bacterial vaccine adult type (see the following topic).

DIPHTHERIA, TETANUS AND PERTUSSIS

They can appear in any age. Diphtheria is transmitted by saliva drops and it is controlled in Brazil, but still causes isolated outbreaks. Tetanus is caused by wound contamination through earth, stool and saliva or by rusty blades; by dental infections. Pertussis, also transmitted by saliva drops, is rising all over the world.

- Indication – The triple bacterial vaccine protects us from the three diseases (as the name suggests) and it is recommended from 2 months old on. Teenagers must receive a backup and from then on, from 10 to 10 years for all their lives. The presentation of the adult type is specially indicated to pregnant women.
- Contraindication – Only in cases of severe allergy (anaphylaxis) to any vaccine component after the anterior dose.
- Doses – On children: three doses in the first year, the first one by 2 months old, and then from two to two months, plus a backup between 15-18 months and another between 4 and 6 years old. From this schedule, backups each 10 years are necessary. Adults with an incomplete vaccination schedule (less than 3 doses) must complete it with one dose of the dTpa vaccine (acellular triple bacterial vaccine for adults) plus one or more doses of the dT vaccine (double adult), totaling three doses against tetanus.
- Most common reactions – Heat, redness, swelling and pain on the spot of the application. Unspecific systemic symptoms can occur, as discomfort and fever.
- Where to take the vaccines in Brazil – The public health system has the vaccine triple bacterial of full cells for children until 7 years old. For adults, it has the double vaccine, against diphtheria and tetanus. The vaccination private practices have the triple bacterial acellular vaccine, for children and adults, and also in combination with the inactivated vaccine of poliomyelitis (quadruple bacterial).

YELLOW FEVER (YF)

It is transmitted by an infected mosquito bite and the lethality in cases that show symptoms varies from 5% to 50%. The Organização Mundial da Saúde (OMS) – World Health Organization – estimate 200 thousand cases and 30 thousand deaths because of YF in the world. In Brazil, the disease presents risk and the vaccine is part of the routine vaccination calendars in North and Central-West regions; in Maranhão and part of Piauí, Bahia, Minas Gerais, São Paulo, Paraná, Santa Catarina and Rio Grande do Sul.

- Indication – The vaccine is recommended from 9 months old on for everybody that lives or travels to risk areas.
- Contraindication – Pregnant women; women that breastfeed babies younger than 6 months old; babies younger than 6 months old; immunosuppressed people or with hypersensitivity (anaphylaxis) to any vaccine components.
- Dose – One each ten years, from 9 months old on.
- Most common reactions – Generally are light and rare (5% to 10% from those who took the shot) and include: headache, muscles sore and fever five to ten days after the vaccination. Occasionally, it may occur allergic reaction to egg protein. The anaphylaxis is very rare and affects in special, people that have egg allergy.

→ Where to take the vaccines in Brazil – At all the health public services and private practices credentialed by Anvisa (National Health Surveillance Agency, p. 48).

MENINGITIS MENINGOCOCCAL (MM)

MM may occur in any part of the world and children and young travelers are among the most infected, especially the ones that attend crowded environments (big events, for instance); dorms and public transportation, including tourism buses. The risk varies according to the local epidemiology (quantity and distribution of the cases) and it is different from zero. Besides the person's health commitment, the infection implies the possibility of the introduction of the disease in the travelers' origin countries after his return to home. Because of the great variety of the geographical distribution of the serum groups (types) of Neisseria meningitidis (bacteria that causes MM) in the entire world, it is important that the majority part of the population are immunized against the most possible number of serum groups. Because of that, the combined vaccines are the most indicated; preferably the quadruple combined meningococcal vaccine that protects from the serum groups A, C, W and Y. This care will also prevent the health carrier – a state that the person doesn't get sick and even doesn't know that is a carrier, therefore, a bacteria transmitter.

→ Indication – Children from 2 months old on must be vaccinated routinely with the combined meningococcal C vaccine. People older than 2 years old must receive, preferably, the meningococcal ACWY vaccine – mainly, but not exclusively – in case of travels to places where the disease is in high prevalence ("Meningitis African Belt") or where there are occurring outbreaks.

- Contraindication – Only in cases of severe allergy (anaphylaxis) to any vaccine component after the anterior dose.
- Doses – Combined meningococcal C vaccine (for children from 2 months old on): two doses, one by the age of 3 months old and the other by the age of 5 months old and backups by 12 months old, 5 years old and 11 years old.

Attention: For the backup by the age of 5 and teenagers/adults, we recommend preferably the quadruple ACWY vaccine: unique dose. However, if it is the first immunization of the teenager against MM, we recommend two doses of quadruple: one dose and another 5 years after that. Vaccinated adults (more than 5 years), in case of travels or outbreaks, must receive a dose.

- Most common reactions – Pain, heat and redness on the spot of the application.
- Where to take the vaccines in Brazil – The meningococcal C vaccine is available in public services for children up to 1 year old; in private practices there is no age restriction. The quadruple ACWY vaccine is available only in vaccination private practices.

HPV

Sexually transmitted, this virus causes cervical, anus, penis and mouth cancer among others, and also causes genital warts. The use of condom is important, but it cannot protect totally from the infection. It is known that traveling increase the risk of sexually transmitted diseases.

- Indication – In Brazil, the HPV vaccine is indicated by SBLm routinely to men between 9 and 26 years old and women above 9 years old.
- Contraindication – Pregnancy. Also in cases of severe allergy (anaphylaxis) to any vaccine components after the previous dose.
- Doses – Three: 0-1 to 2-6 months.
- Most common reactions – Pain, heat and redness on the spot of the application.
- Where to take the vaccines in Brazil – At vaccination private practices. At public services, from March/2014, it will be available only for girls between 11 to 13 years old.

MEASLES, MUMPS AND RUBELLA (SCR)

These three diseases are controlled in Brazil. The records from measles are in susceptible Brazilian people infected during international trips, or by foreign travelers visiting the country and that transmitted the disease to susceptible Brazilian people. Events that gather a big number of people from all around the world represent risk of measles.

- Indication – The triple viral vaccine is indicated to people from all ages and prevents the three diseases.
- Contraindication – Pregnancy and immunodeficiency. Also in cases of severe allergy (anaphylaxis) to any vaccine components after the previous dose.

- Doses – Two, one month between them.
- Most common reactions – Some cases of fever and redness all over the body can occur around five to twelve days after the vaccination.
- Where to take the vaccines in Brazil – The triple viral is available at health public services for Brazilian people until 49 years old, and the vaccination private practices for everybody.

CHICKENPOX

Known as "catapora", it is a highly contagious infection, transmitted from person to person and it causes outbreaks.

- Indication – People older than 1 year old and that did not have the disease yet.
- Contraindication – Pregnancy and immunodeficiency. Also in cases of severe allergy (anaphylaxis) to any vaccine components after the previous dose.
- Doses – Two. For children between 1 and 12 years old: MINIMUM interval of three months. Older than 12 years old: interval of 1-3 months.
- Most common reactions – Pain, heat and redness on the spot of the application. A clinical state can be similar, but much softer; can occur one or two weeks after the vaccination.

- Where to take the vaccines in Brazil – At the health services, the vaccine is available for children between 15 and 24 months old. At vaccination private practices, it is available for children, teenagers and adults.

TUBERCULOSIS

In Brazil it is highly endemic and considered a health public issue. It is low risk to travelers and there is no evidence of facilitated transmission in planes or other means of transportation. However, immunocompromised travelers that will remain here for a long time and those who are visiting relatives in endemic areas are in greater risk.

- Indication – The BCG vaccine is indicated routinely for Brazilian children. Risk people, visiting Brazil, must have an appointment with a physician to evaluate the indication.
- Contraindication – Pregnancy and immunodeficiency.
- Dose – Unique.
- Most common reactions – Expected and typical local reaction: subcutaneously abscess; inflammation on the lymph nodes; scar and keloid.
- Where to take the vaccines in Brazil – At public services, the vaccine is available for Brazilian people from 0 to 60 months old. At vaccination private practices, for everybody.

PNEUMONIAS, MENINGITIS, OTITIS AND SINUSITIS

These are the main manifestations of the pneumococcal diseases, caused by pneumococcus bacteria. The most affected are: younger than 2 years old and older than 60 years old; diabetics; cardiacs; people with compromised lungs; kidneys; people without spleen (asplenia) or in other debilitating conditions.

- Indication – The pneumococcal conjugate vaccine is indicated routinely for all children younger than 5 years old. Adults older than 60 years old and everybody that has a chronic disease, no matter the age, must receive not only the conjugate vaccine, but also a polysaccharides one.
- Contraindication – In the case of severe allergy (anaphylaxis) to any vaccine components after the previous dose.
- Doses – Children: three doses in the first year and a backup when turn 15 months old. Children older than 2 years old, risk adults and elderly: unique dose.
- Most common reactions – Pain, heat, redness on the spot of the application and, eventually, fever.
- Where to take the vaccines in Brazil – At public services: children younger than 2 years old. For children until 5 carriers of any chronic condition, the vaccine is available at the "Centros de Referência em Imunobiológicos Especiais" – Cries. (Reference centers of special immunobiologicals). At vaccination private practices, for all the situations that are indicated, no matter the age.

HUMAN RABIES

It occurs in almost all the continents, except from Antarctica. It is lethal and transmitted by an infected animal with the virus through bite or scratch. Brazil, in 2010, registered three cases of human rabies. In the last 15 years, there was a progressive decrease of attacks caused by dogs and an increase of attacks caused by bats.

- Indication – The prevention pre-exposure can be indicated to travelers that go to areas where rabies is endemic and that have increased risk of exposure to animals – that would be evaluated on the appointment before the trip. The vaccination post exposure is indicated to everybody. Rabies is not endemic in Brazil.
- Contraindication – There is none.
- Doses – Vaccination pre-exposure: three doses – the second one applied seven days and the third 21 to 28 days after the first. Vaccination post exposure: the animal condition, the type of the wound and the local of the bite/scratch will define the schedule of the vaccination and if the administration of immunoglobulin is needed or not. A physician must be consulted.
- Most common reactions – Heat, redness, swelling and pain on the spot of the application. In some cases, systemic reactions as: discomfort, fever, sore muscles and headache.
- Where to take the vaccines in Brazil – Public health services and private practices.

CHOLERA AND TRAVELERS' DIARRHEA (DV)

The gastroenteritis is characterized by a process of vomit and diarrhea and it is caused by many infectious agents that are transmitted by via faecal-oral, water and contaminated food, directly or indirectly, by waste, incorrect storage of food in inappropriate temperature and sanitary conditions, by failing in the hygiene procedures, utensils, or by usage of untreated water (see the topic "Diarrhea", p. 42).

Among the agents that cause this process, stands out the Escherichia coli enterotoxigênica (Etec) as the most common related to travelers' diarrhea. Cholera can also be a problem, depending on the traveler's destination. However, it is a low risk, even in the countries that the disease is epidemic, which is not the case in Brazil.

- Indications – The traveler's vaccination when a tourist, must be evaluated considering the time spent in the place, the characteristics of the lodging and food and the activities.
- Contraindication – Hypersensitivity to the vaccine previous dose.
- Doses – The primary vaccination schedule consists of two oral doses with a 7 to 14 days interval for adults and children from 6 years old on; for children between 2 to 5 years old, it is recommended three doses with a 7 to 14 days interval.
- Most common reactions – Rare, but it can occur gastrointestinal symptoms as abdominal pain, nausea, diarrhea.
- Where to take the vaccines in Brazil – The vaccine is not available in Brazil.

PNEUMONIAS, MENINGITIS AND OTHER INFECTIONS BY HAEMOPHILUS INFLUENZAE OF TYPE b (Hib)

Many are the infections caused by the bacteria Haemophilus Influenzae of type b, specially pneumonias and meningitis, but nowadays they are rare, thanks to infant vaccination. In general, they attack carriers of chronicle diseases.

- Indication – The Hib vaccine is indicated for children in the first five years and for children older than 5, teenagers and adults that are carriers of heart, lungs, kidney or chronicle rheumatic conditions; the ones that do not have the spleen; transplanted patients, immunodeficients, among others.
- Contraindication – In the case of severe allergy (anaphylaxis) to any vaccine components after the previous dose.
- Doses – Children: three doses in the first year and a backup in the second. Teenagers and adults in risk conditions: one or two doses, according to their clinical condition.
- Most common reactions – Local pain and fever.
- Where to take the vaccines in Brazil – At health public services, for Brazilian children until 5 years old and in the "Centros de Referência para Imunobiológicos Especiais" – Cries (Reference centers of special immunobiologicals), for carriers of chronicle diseases until 19 years old. At the vaccination private practices the Hib vaccine is available in all the situations, regardless the age or nationality.

TO GET ALONG

JET LAG

The syndrome of the time zone quick change (Jet lag) alters the biological clock and causes symptoms like: fatigue, daily sleepiness, difficult in concentration and thinking, irritability, headache and sleep disorders. To minimize them:

- ✦ Try to alter the sleep rhythm before the trip, suiting it to the destiny time zone.
- ✦ Try to travel rested.
- ✦ At the night flights, try to sleep and relax.
- ✦ Do not drink alcoholic beverages and limit the caffeine.

When arrive in the destiny:

- ✦ Set your wrist watch with the local time immediately.
- ✦ Do the activities and eat accordingly to the local time.
- ✦ Try to practice exercises
- ✦ Try to take only short naps
- ✦ Adopt a light and fractionated diet

GET SMART: If you have difficult to sleep, you may need sleeping pills. In this case, remember to talk to your physician about it.

WATER

- ✦ Drink mineral bottled water or industrialized beverages.
- ✦ Do not take ice if you do not know the precedence (in scale shape or in street vendor's containers, for example)
- ✦ Do not drink juice if you do not know the precedence of the water.
- ✦ Do not swim or practice water sports in lakes, rivers, dams, and sea with the sign "unsuitable for bathing" ("impróprio para banho") – big newspapers use to inform the bathing conditions. Not treated swimming pools also represent lots of risks.

GET SMART: If you are traveling around areas with no adequate sanitary conditions, boil the water or treat it with povidine, hidrosteril (chlorine tablets) or iodine dye. Before going to these regions, remember to take these items and talk to your physician about their correct use.

FEEDING

- ✦ Hands are the most important mean of virus and bacteria and feeding is the moment that we take them to the mouth repeatedly and touch the food. You can use alcohol in gel 70% to clean your hands, rubbing for 20 to 30 seconds – "gold standard" of sanitization. But if they are clearly dirt, wash with water and soap.
- ✦ If you are not sure about the hygiene adequate conditions, avoid eating salads, raw vegetables, drink fruit juices, milk and nonpasteurised dairy.

- ✦ Do not have food and beverages sold by street vendors. In big events, it is common that registered vendors and the ones associated to big companies provide food. This helps to minimize the risks. Seek information.
- ✦ Only eat well cooked meat, chicken, fish and sea food.
- ✦ Also seek trustable restaurants, indicated by people from the region or on the published gastronomic guides.

GET SMART: Even if the supplier is a known trade mark, avoid fat food, creamy and greasy (see the topic "Travelers' Diarrhea", p. 42). This care can free you from bed resting.

CLOTHES

- ✦ Wear suitable clothes for the temperature and activities you intend to do. In hot weather, cotton clothes protect the body, do not warm too much and facilitate the transpiration. See on page 40 how your choice of clothes and shoes can help in insects' bites protection.

GET SMART: Prefer light clothes; they retain less heat and allow you to see better the insects.

BEACHES

- ✦ Attention to the advertence signs.
- ✦ Do not go into the sea after exaggerate with alcohol.
- ✦ Never leave children alone in the sea.
- ✦ Swim in parallel to the beach.
- ✦ Try to bath near a safe service.
- ✦ Keep away of rocks and coastal.
- ✦ Use bracelets to identify children.

GET SMART: Some beaches of Rio de Janeiro and Santa Catarina are exposed to the action of a phenomenon known as "resurgence" that causes a big contrast between water and sun temperatures. So, try to avoid entering in the water after long exposition to the sun, due to the risk of thermal shock and fainting.

SEA, RIVERS, LAKES AND SWIMMING POOLS

In Brazil, drowning is the second greatest cause of death by accident among children and teenagers until 14 years old, only losing for car accidents. Adults also take risks. Because of this, pay attention:

- ✦ Before swimming, try to recognize the place and seek for lifeguards. Avoid swimming alone.
- ✦ Respect the signs and delimitations of areas of big risk.
- ✦ Do not overestimate children and teenagers' abilities and tell them to wear life jacket.
- ✦ Attention to the use of alcoholic beverages.
- ✦ Do not dive without knowing the depth and rocks existence.
- ✦ At drowning saving, choose to launch floats instead of trying to save the person, especially if you do not have experience in it.
- ✦ Avoid water jokes, like "drown" joke.
- ✦ By boat or any other kind of vessel, always wear life vest.
- ✦ Only ride a vessel if you have license.

EXPOSITION TO THE SUN/ BURNING

Travelers use to stay for a long time doing open air activities, exposing to the unhealthy ultraviolet rays (UV), even in cloud days. Sun reflection on the sand and the water also increase the exposure to these rays. Therefore, attention to:

- ✦ Try to avoid long exposition to the sun between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m.
- ✦ Try to protect your body with cotton clothes.
- ✦ Always wear caps and hats.
- ✦ Drink a lot of fluids.
- ✦ Use sunscreen with protection factor equal or bigger than 15.
- ✦ Do not do artificial tanning.

GET SMART: Go to a physician in case of:

- ✦ Severe burns.
- ✦ Dehydration.
- ✦ High fever.
- ✦ Prostration.
- ✦ A lot of pain for a long period (bigger than 48 hours).

INSECTS' BITES

The prevention of insects' bites and, consequently, diseases transmitted by them, must receive travelers' special attention when they go to rural area, forests or "cerrado". Brazil has enormous wood areas, where there are diseases like: malaria, yellow fever, leishmaniasis, dengue (also a risk in big urban centers), among others transmitted by mosquitoes. The prevention includes environmental measures and individual protection as:

- ◆ To use topic repellent: Deet (in adequate concentration and recommended for each age) and Icaridina present good results in bites prevention, very safe and they are effective for children (from 2 years old on) and adults.
- ◆ To use physical barriers as protection screens and mosquito nets.
- ◆ To sleep in locals with efficient sealing or air conditioner.

GET SMART: For those who are planning on camping, trials and/or activities on the woods, there are proper repellents for clothes and shoes, as well as screens with repellent to make nets, camping tents, children strollers, etc. Seek for information!

SECURITY

In Brazil, as well as in every big city in the world, there are places with a big robbery ratio. The places where there are more tourists are the target ones and some cares help to decrease the risks:

- ✦ Try to avoid: walk alone; empty and bad illuminated places; empty beaches and parks.
- ✦ Try not to leave out: wallet with money and documents; cameras, cell phones and electronic equipments.
- ✦ Set dates in public locations, like bars and restaurants.
- ✦ Do not take strangers to the places you are staying.
- ✦ At the beach or other touristic spots, like night clubs and bars, do not leave your personal belongings alone.
- ✦ Try to avoid going out with lots of cash.
- ✦ It is better to use cab services from cooperatives.

GET SMART: Carry copies of your documents instead of the original ones. This will avoid problems in case you are robbed.

DIARRHEA

Diarrhea is the most frequently clinical situation mentioned by travelers, especially by those who go from the most developed areas to the less developed ones. The incidence rate of travelers' diarrhea in high risk areas varies from 30% to 50%, the same as about 24 to 40 million people in the world – 7,5 to 12,5 million Europeans and 5 to 15,9 million North Americans.

Considering the Brazilian territorial dimension and the difference about sanitary and epidemiologic conditions, we can imagine that Brazilian people, traveling inside and outside the country, present similar risks to those travelers that leave a developed country and go to a less developed one.

In short trips, 20% to 50% of the people have diarrhea. Young people are more likely to have it because they are less worried about hygiene cares.

Diarrhea uses to be part of a self limited syndrome and it is frequently associated to symptoms like: abdominal distension, nausea, cramps, fever and fatigue. Rarely, it represents risk of life, but it can compromise some days, enabling the traveler to do his/her planned activities.

Diarrhea is the most frequent infectious disease of them all and can be debilitate. Its origin is in food contamination. Less frequently, it can be related to infections transmitted by water. The careless with hygiene is the greatest risk factor. Therefore, pay careful attention in water and food!

The Etec bacterium is responsible for most cases of diarrhea. The virus is responsible for 5% to 10% of the watery acute form, above all in children, and the principal one is the Norovirus because it is highly contagious and it reproduces very quickly.

In case of outbreaks in a ship, more than 80% of the passengers can be affected. This characteristic associated to the facility of the transmission from person to person and the capacity of the virus to survive to the cleaning routinely procedures, explain the high frequency of outbreaks.

We do not recommend prevention with medicines. However, all travelers must carry this medication in the first aid kit, which will reduce the disease intensity, the time of duration and possible complications. Ask for medical advice. In case of diarrhea caused by Norovirus, there is no specific medicine developed for this kind of virus. However, there is a medicine used to treat many parasites and it is indicated to the treatment of rotavirus and norovirus, because it has been showing an effective reduction of the disease length.

Depending on the gravity of the symptoms, it can be necessary the use of antibiotics and fluids and electrolytes reposition orally or even intravenous.

SEXUALLY TRANSMITTED DISEASE (STDs)

Brazil presents variable occurrence rates of hepatitis B, AIDS and other sexually transmitted diseases and also by blood contact, with important regional variation. Because of that, it is important:

- ✦ To have only secure sex, using condoms.
- ✦ Do not apply piercings or tattoos in studios where the hygiene conditions and the equipment cleaning are not attested by an inspection organ.
- ✦ To use an own nail pliers and other sharp instruments when going to manicure/pedicure/podiatrist.
- ✦ Do not use injectable drugs or share syringes and needles.

GET SMART: Before any trip you must search information about health care units in the region you are going to visit. People that have health insurance (national and international) must get in touch with the central of assistance and ask information about telephones and service network for emergency cases in the city of destiny.
